

Epistemic Forces in International Law: Foundational Doctrines and Techniques of International Legal Argumentation (Elgar International Law series)

Epistemic Forces in International Law presents a comprehensive examination of the methodological choices made by international lawyers and provides a discerning insight into the ways in which lawyers shape their arguments to secure validation within the international legal community. International law is defined in this book as an argumentative practice, articulated around a set of foundational doctrines and deployed through rhetorical techniques. Taking an original approach, Jean d'Aspremont focuses on five key foundational doctrines of international legal theory and five key techniques deployed in international legal argumentation. He argues that mastering these foundational principles and argumentative procedures shapes the discourse of international lawyers as much as these discourses shape these foundational doctrines and techniques of legal argumentation. This book is a pertinent contribution to the methodology and theory of international law, illustrating the rationale of the choices made by lawyers in the doctrines of statehood, sources, law-making, international organizations and effectivity. This accessible reflection on the conceptual, theoretical and methodological perspectives of international law will be a salient point of reference for legal academics, researchers and practitioners alike.

No stencils or patterns are ever used. Every birdhouse is treated with several coats of high quality exterior varnish for protection from the elements and to ensure colors will stay bright throughout the seasons. Birds love gourds for nesting and will often return to the same one year after year. When nesting season ends, the gourd's usefulness doesn't end. Birds will continue to use them as shelter from weather and for protection from predators.
