THIS CASEBOOK contains a selection of 83 U. S. Court of Appeals decisions that analyze, discuss and interpret fraud-on-the-market doctrine. The selection of decisions spans from 2002 to the date of publication. The fraud-on-the-market theory, which derive[s] from the so-called efficient market hypothesis ... [provides] that in an open and developed securities market, the price of a companys stock is determined by the available material information regarding the company and its business. FindWhat Investor Grp. v. FindWhat.com, 658 F.3d 1282, 1309-10 (11th Cir.2011) (quoting Basic Inc. v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 241, 108 S.Ct. 978, 989, 99 L.Ed.2d 194 (1988)), cert. denied, ___ U.S. ___, 133 S.Ct. 109, 184 L.Ed.2d 23 (2012). Therefore, the market price of shares traded on well-developed markets reflects all publicly available information, and, hence, any material misrepresentations, Basic, 485 U.S. at 246, 108 S.Ct. at 991, and we can presume that an investor relies on public misstatements whenever he buys or sells stock at the price set by the market, Halliburton, 131 S.Ct. at 2185 (internal quotation marks omitted). Meyer v. Greene, 710 F. 3d 1189 (11th Cir. 2013). Local 703 v. Regions Financial Corp., 762 F. 3d 1248 (11th Cir. 2014). But the mere purchase of stocks at a price set by the market does not permit plaintiffs to take advantage of Basic's rebuttable presumption of reliance. It is well settled that plaintiffs must prove certain things in order to invoke that presumption. Id. It is common ground, for example, that plaintiffs must demonstrate that the alleged misrepresentations were publicly known ..., that the stock traded in an efficient market, and that the relevant transaction took place between the time the misrepresentations were made and the time the truth was revealed. Id. (quotation marks omitted). Local 703 v. Regions Financial Corp., ibid.
